

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

ROYAL CHAMPAGNE.

1874 & 1880 VINTAGE.

A ROYAL CHAMPAGNE.

"Carte Bleu," Dry, 42s. per doz. "Carte Bleu," Extra Dry, 46s. per doz

We can strongly recommend this Wine; it is one of the best value we ever offered; it has all the true Champagne characteristics—Purity, Delicacy of Flavour, and full effervescence. It has great keeping qualities for improving with age.

THE ROYAL CHAMPAGNE.

"Carte Verte," Dry 54s. per doz.

This Wine is a fine full-bodied Champagne, and will be much esteemed by those whose palate does not appreciate a very dry Wine.

THE ROYAL CHAMPAGNE.

"Carte Blanche," Reserved Cuvee, Extra Sec., 60s. per doz.

Although we quote this Wine at so modest a price, the quality is so exceptional that we fearlessly say it cannot be equalled by any Wine at less than 72s. or 76s. per dozen, and the known Brands at even higher prices do not excel this choice Cuvee in any way except in the matter of price.

DENT'S CHRONOMETERS, WATCHES, and CLOCKS have long held pre-eminent rank, as may be seen from the Reports of various scientific persons:—

THE ASTRONOMER ROYAL (SIR G. B. AIRY), in his Report to the Admiralty (August 13th, 1870) on forty Chronometers entered for annual competition, says of M. F. DENT'S Chronometer—"This is the finest Chronometer that we have ever had on trial."

N.B.—THE LATE ASTRONOMER ROYAL (J. POWD, Esq.), reporting, in 1829, on the celebrated public trial, by order of the Lords of the Admiralty, which lasted thirteen years, during which nearly 500 Chronometers were tested, says:—

"Your Chronometer, No. 114, is entitled to the First Premium. Actual variation in the year 0.54 hundredths of a second. This is superior to any other yet tried."

THE RUSSIAN IMPERIAL ASTRONOMER (M. STRUVE), of St. Petersburg, reporting upon 84 Chronometers tested by the Russian Chronometrical Expedition, in 1843, says:—

"The DENT CHRONOMETERS have held FIRST RANK in a brilliant manner. They contributed, beyond dispute, THE MOST EFFECTUALLY to the exactitude of the results. M. STRUVE."

"By Command of the Emperor the Russian Gold Medal of the Highest Order of Merit was presented to Mr. DENT."

In testimony of the excellence of DENT'S TURRET CLOCKS, Sir G. B. AIRY, Astronomer Royal, says:—

"ROYAL OBSERVATORY, GREENWICH 22nd July, 1845.

"I believe the Clock which you have constructed for the Royal Exchange to be THE BEST IN THE WORLD as regards accuracy of going and striking."

"MR. DENT, 33, Cockspur Street, Charing Cross."

"G. B. AIRY."

SIR WILLIAM ARMSTRONG, Inventor of the Armstrong Gun, says:—

"9, HYDE PARK STREET, W., 14th November, 1861.

"The Chronometer Watch you made for me in December, 1859, has never been affected by travelling or riding; its variation at the end of a year was only 45 seconds. It has proved in every respect a most satisfactory Watch."

P R E F A C E.

THE remarkable development which of late years has been manifest in biographical undertakings renders it necessary that in adding to the number of those which have been completed, or which are in process of publication, I should prove myself justified in doing so by the distinctive character of my enterprise.

Biography in the present day is tending, like other studies, to become more and more specialized. Already dictionaries of universal biography are being everywhere abandoned for those which are to deal with the biography of particular nations. But even so, the mines of biographical materials have become so much more accessible within the present generation, that such a work, for instance, as the noble Dictionary of National Biography, of which the two volumes have already appeared, seems likely to extend far beyond the limits that could at first sight have appeared possible. It may, therefore, fairly be contended that the more restricted the scope of the biographer, the more creditably his work is likely to be accomplished, and that if he confines himself to a special class, requiring special information, he may be enabled, by making himself master of that information, to produce a work of peculiar value.

My own enterprise is accordingly limited to a particular department of the wide field open to biographical research. It is my aim to compile from the original records, in a clear form, complete and essentially authentic lists of all those whose names are to be discovered as graduates of our two historic universities, as members of our ancient Inns of Court, or as representatives from the earliest times in the parliaments of the three kingdoms. These lists I propose in addition to annotate to the best of my ability, making use, for that purpose, of the stores of material accumulated in my genealogical collections, and in the case of those now living of a vast mass of that personal information which the biographer so highly values, and which has been long and freely tendered me. It is the lack of such contemporary information in the past that he has so often and so grievously to deplore. It will readily be admitted that such an enterprise as this, if I am enabled to accomplish it with success, will form not only a series of most important works of reference, but will lay the foundations and form the groundwork of more scholarly and accurate biographical knowledge than it has hitherto been possible to obtain.

Our painters and engravers, our judges, our naval heroes, some of our archbishops, and even our authors have had special works devoted to them by able biographers. Yet it is remarkable that neither of the seats of learning, our universities and our inns of court, with their records carefully and elaborately kept for at least three centuries, should have possessed men strong enough to compile from time to time histories of their contemporaries and forerunners, and that these corporations should have lacked the public spirit to have stood sponsors to undertakings which to us of this generation would have been priceless. The works of Antony A'Wood and of Dugdale, and the MSS. of Cole, are evidence, however, of what could be effected if means only could have been found for their extension. The secret of failure is doubtless to be found in the fact that their value to posterity is ignored, or perhaps even undreamt of, and they are therefore denied legitimate support, even by the very corporations whose history they serve to illustrate.

We have it, then, that the continuous history of these institutions is yet to be written. But although the several universities each possess their calendar, yet the Inns of Court have never even in their corporate or collective capacity been able to rise to the university level. A spirited attempt was, indeed, made by the under-treasurer of the Middle Temple a few years ago, but it failed to arouse the interest of those concerned. This was most probably because it abounded merely in what seemed at the time common knowledge, yet unquestionably as time rolls on, his carefully compiled and useful volumes will be eagerly consulted by the legal biographer.

I have already advanced so far with my scheme as to have completed the list from the earliest times of Scottish members of parliament,* and to have made some progress with those of English and Irish representatives. It will, however, I find, be more advantageous to give precedence for the present to my lists of barristers. For this there are two reasons. In the first place, the material which they contain is of greater value or illustrating the other lists than conversely, and should, therefore, be dealt with first; in the second, their precious genealogical information is at once the most interesting and the most unknown. It was while collecting materials, a few years ago, for the annotation of the lists I am completing, as mentioned above, from the official returns of the members of parliament, that my attention was specially drawn to the value of the registers of admissions to the Inns of Court, "the noblest nurseries of humanity and liberty in the kingdom."

* Members of Parliament, Scotland, 1357-1882 (privately printed), pp. 360.

PREFACE.

So much was I impressed with the importance of their contents, not only to the genealogist, but also to the biographer, that I at once set myself to obtain the sanction of the benchers of the various Inns of Court to permit me to transcribe these registers. The desired concession, I need scarcely add, was in all cases most cordially granted.

The vast extent of these registers may be estimated from the period at which they commence: Lincoln's Inn, 18 Henry VI., 1439; Inner Temple, 1547; Middle Temple, 1501; and Gray's Inn, from 1521, cumulatively representing a period of fifteen hundred and thirty-two years. Having completed the several transcripts, and having made some progress with the publication of the admissions to Gray's Inn in my Collectanea Genealogica, I found it impracticable to obtain personal information from barristers in so desultory a fashion as that plan was found to involve, I therefore determined to utilise my copies of these legal registers for the production of a separate volume, devoted solely to short notices of the present members of the bar.

The issue of this volume will have the additional advantage of enabling those whose names occur in it to correct its errors and supply its omissions, and so to assist me to attain a higher perfection in the complete lists which will be ultimately published.

Some idea of the labour involved in this compilation may be inferred from the fact that probably ninety-nine out of every hundred of these biographical notices are to be found nowhere else. My knowledge of the families of the nobility and gentry has lessened some of the natural difficulties, for a large number of these notices refer to the cadets of the nobility, the heads of county families, and the sons of our merchant princes. To the original entries of admission and parentage extracted from the records themselves, there are here added, to the best of my ability, the university and legal distinctions, the public offices and appointments, the marriages, residences, etc., etc., of all "Men-at-the-Bar." So varied are these details, that almost any appointment from the Lord High Chancellor down to the counsel to the Salvation Army may be found in its pages. Very many of the notices, I am happy to say, have been corrected by the barristers themselves, and the majority may therefore, be considered as, in fact, published by authority.

Surprise may be occasioned by the appearance in this work of names belonging to other professions, such as beneficed clergymen of the Church of England, Roman Catholic priests, medical men, and even soldiers and sailors; but however anomalous this may seem, it is strictly in accordance with the recognised rule that a barrister is at the bar until he is actually disbarred; a mere withdrawal of his name from his inn of court is insufficient to remove him from the list of barristers.

Protracted and arduous though such an undertaking as this must inevitably prove to be, I found my work further lessened by availing myself of the work to which I have referred above, namely the Inns of Court Calendar, 1878, compiled by Charles Shaw, Esq., under-treasurer of the Middle Temple, for from that valuable repertory of legal information I was enabled to obtain the dates of the great majority of the admissions, and so to refer to the original entries, without the added and incalculable labour of searching, and that over a number of years, for the admission of each of the seven or eight thousand barristers separately. The period over which the admissions of living barristers extend may be estimated from the fact that Viscount Eversley, the venerable father of the English bar, was already a member of Lincoln's Inn before the battle of Waterloo was fought.

Doubtless owing to the increasing duties of the county court judges, the Crown has deemed it desirable to confer upon them especial rank and precedence, and although placed by the royal warrant immediately after knights bachelors in the precedency among men, yet their place is immediately after the Solicitor-General in the order of legal precedence. Owing to the importance of the subject, I reprint the royal warrant referred to:—

“WHITEHALL, 7 AUG., 1884.”

The Queen has been pleased to grant Rank and Precedence to County Court Judges of England and Wales by the following Warrant, under Her Royal Sign Manual, which was duly recorded in H.M.'s College of Arms pursuant to the Earl Marshal's Warrant of 31st October, 1884:—

“VICTORIA R.

“VICTORIA, by the Grace of God of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland Queen, Defender of the Faith:

“To Our right trusty and right entirely beloved Cousin Henry, Duke of Norfolk, Earl Marshal, and Our Hereditary Marshal of England; Greeting!

“Whereas We taking into Our Royal consideration that the Rank and Precedence of the Judges of County Courts in England and Wales have not been declared or defined by due authority, We deem it therefore expedient that the same should be henceforth established and defined:

“Know ye, therefore, that in the exercise of Our Royal Prerogative, We do hereby declare Our Royal will and pleasure that in all times hereafter the Judges of County Courts in England and Wales shall be called, known, and addressed by the style and title of ‘His Honour’ prefixed to the word ‘Judge’ before their respective names, and shall have Rank and Precedence next after Knights Bachelors:

“Our will and pleasure further is that you Henry, Duke of Norfolk, to whom the cognizance of matters of this nature doth properly belong, do see this Our Order observed and kept, and that you do cause the same to be recorded in Our College of Arms to the end that Our Officers of Arms and all others upon occasion may take full notice and have knowledge thereof.

“Given at Our Court at Saint James's, the fourth day of August, 1884, in the 48th year of Our Reign.

“By Her Majesty's Command,

“W. V. HARCOURT.”

PREFACE.

If a subsequent edition of this work be called for, I hope by a special numerical arrangement to include the relative precedency of the various members of the bar, from the Lord High Chancellor to the junior barrister. This, I doubt not, will be appreciated as a novel and valuable feature, for in no existing work is that precedency supplied.

Should sufficient interest be aroused in my undertaking, and the requisite encouragement be forthcoming on the part of the Faculty of Advocates and the benchers of King's Inns, it would also be desirable to add to this list the members of the Scottish and the Irish bars.

I ought not, perhaps, to leave unnoticed a seemingly small yet not uninteresting point that has arisen in the course of my work. This is the problem of how best to deal with the names of the Indian barristers. To find a satisfactory principle for their arrangement in alphabetical order is a matter of no slight difficulty. The Hindoos of Bengal have surnames, so also have the Parsees, but the Mahomedans having none, and finding that in England it is necessary to adopt one, have done so as yet in a somewhat haphazard manner, giving preference, however, to the name of their caste or religious designation. Hence such extemporized patronymics as Mr. Ali, Mr. Iyah, Mr. Pandit, or Mr. Tagore, which, unmeaning though they be to those ignorant of the language, must surely to the native be somewhat incongruous and grotesque. It would be well, indeed, if some rules could be laid down for the adoption of surnames for the use of the public services; even in the index to the official India list there are instances where a native will be found under no less than three names.

The inconvenience seems greatest to us in the case of brothers, who of course have totally different names. In one instance I detected three brothers, in other cases two brothers. These I have placed under their father's name with a cross reference, but I am far from feeling that even this plan may not horrify the native ear. For very much advice in the arrangement of these Indian names I am indebted to my friend C. W. Arathoon, Esq., Barrister-at-Law, of the East India Association.

For the complete list of the members of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, I have to thank Lord Hobhouse, Q.C., K.C.S.I., C.I.E., who, with his customary courtesy, spared no trouble in obtaining for me the list of names as printed. To His Honour Judge Stonor, I am indebted for the authentic list of County Court Judges.

I venture to believe that the present volume will supply a very real want, and that few of our existing works of reference are so likely to be widely and constantly employed. For on the illustrious roll of the Inns of Court there will be found not only the names of those eminent in the law, but also of the majority of our public men, the leaders of our unrivalled press, and the most distinguished writers of the day.

The Peerage, or Baronetage, separate, with gilt edges, each 25s.

The Peerage, Baronetage & Knightage of the British Empire.

BY JOSEPH FOSTER.

THE work contains upwards of 1,400 woodcuts of Arms of Peers and Baronets, full-page Engravings of the Royal Arms and the Insignia of the various Orders of Knighthood, and numerous other illustrations, drawn by Fr. Anselm, of Mount Saint Bernard Abbey, and Mr. Forbes Nixon, of Barnard's Inn. All the Coats of Arms have been revised and corrected by the records of the College of Arms and the Lyon Office. In the pedigrees the collateral branches are more fully given than in any other work. It contains also a hitherto unpublished list of the Baronets of Nova Scotia, compiled by Robert Milne, of Edinburgh, soon after the Union, and a chapter of Addenda to the Baronetcy, entitled "Chaos," including, among other matters, notes upon all apparently doubtful claims to the title of Baronet which have come to the knowledge of the Editor.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"It may fairly be presumed, since Mr. Foster has had free access to the records of the Heralds' College, and the aid of Garter and Bluemantle, that this new Peerage is more accurate than those that have preceded it. . . . Mr. Foster has collected an immense amount of new matter for this work, as may be seen at once on comparing it with other Peerages and Baronetages, and in most instances he gives far fuller genealogies of the later generations of titled families than have previously appeared. An attractive feature in this work, and one that seems likely to commend it to the public, is its engravings, and the armorial designs which accompany each article, and are of more artistic merit than those usually supplied in works of the kind. The most original feature, and one which will doubtless attract a good deal of attention, is a section styled 'Chaos,' at the end of the Baronetage, of great novelty and boldness. This portion of the work will probably disgust those persons whose pretensions it calls in question, though, on the other hand, it will certainly please genealogists and all those who do not approve of persons bearing honours to which they are not entitled. . . . Mr. Foster is deserving of praise for his courage in scrutinizing the pretensions of self-styled Baronets, and the facts which he has stated may tend to restrain claimants of hereditary honours from assuming their titles before having proved their pedigrees."—Athenaeum.

"The labour spent by Mr. Foster on this volume must have been immense, for under every title, whether of the Peers or of the Baronets, he gives not only all the male issue, directly or collaterally related to the title, and in remainder to it, but also the children of all the married female members of the aristocracy. This information, it is only fair to add, is not to be found in any other existing 'Peerage' or 'Baronetage,' so that the credit of it belongs wholly to Mr. Foster. We can certify to the great care with which the work is edited, the tastefulness of the heraldic illustrations, and the excellent typography and binding, which go far to increase its practical value as a book of reference."—The Times.

"Mr. Foster has given to the world a Peerage which must rank at once as of the very highest class. Independence of research and of judgment has conducted the compiler to many discoveries which in the aggregate constitute a virtual impeachment of other authorities to an extent amply sufficient to warrant the publication of this volume. In particular, he challenges the validity of a large number of Baronetcies, and, justly considering that titles so circumstanced ought not to be mixed up indifferently with those upon which no doubt hangs, he has collected them in a separate section of his book under the largely expressive title of 'Chaos.' In many respects 'Chaos' is as interesting as it is undoubtedly important. Of this Peerage it may with truth be said that it will compare in point of magnitude and laborious research with some of the very greatest literary undertakings of the day. For all purposes of reference the work will be found to be a comprehensive and accurate record of our titled classes and their blood relations."—Morning Post.

"We are glad to notice the publication of a new Peerage and Baronetage, the erudite composer of which—Mr. Joseph Foster—forsaking the too frequently practised and inveterate fashion of treating uncorroborated statements of private individuals as gospel truths, has boldly stepped into the arena and has searchingly investigated the true foundation of every claim to dignity. . . . We prefer this work in every respect to the existing compilations of a similar character, and we heartily recommend it as a trustworthy book of reference to the two services."—United Service Gazette.

"We strongly recommend Mr. Foster's 'Peerage'; it is lucid, reliable, admirably arranged, splendidly printed—a volume which must be placed in all libraries, public as well as private. Moreover, it is a herculean literary task, conscientiously and thoroughly well performed."—Whitehall Review.

"It might have been thought that books of the Peerage were already sufficiently numerous, but Mr. Joseph Foster shows good cause to the contrary. He has approached his subject from the point of view of the scientific genealogist and student of heraldry—a circumstance which at once places his work in another category from any of the ordinary Peerages."—The Scotsman.

"The pedigrees have been considerably amplified, and contain more biographical information than is usually to be found in other Peerages; and this applies not only to the lineal, but also to the collateral descents, more especially those of the Baronets. Much of the detail connected therewith is now published for the first time, and has been collected from private sources. Of the various Orders of Knighthood and the shields of the English Sovereigns, both have been well cared for; and the good engraving of the one and the accurate treatment of the other leave nothing more to be desired."—Spectator.

"This is quite a notable book. The coats of arms are bravely and handsomely drawn. The work is a laborious and conscientious compilation, a valuable record, and a fine handsome volume."—Vanity Fair.

"This is the first issue of a new Peerage, which surpasses all others in the splendour of its get-up, and which joins issue with Lodge, Debrett, and Burke in a way which is likely to excite something more than mere curiosity, for everything which the Editor considers 'sham,' either title, arms, or pedigree, he unhesitatingly sets down as such. Each page of the work has evidently been made a study. The heraldic illustrations are all new in design, quaint, effective, and well executed, and Mr. Foster has followed a mode of printing the pedigrees by which their perplexing details can be easily understood and traced with less trouble, as it appears to us, than in any existing publications of a similar kind. . . . But the most important part of the work, genealogically, is the Baronetage, which has a special department named 'Chaos.' We will merely remark on this head that the Editor is evidently a courageous man, as well as an honest one, and we hope that his labour of five years may be rewarded by all the success it merits. . . . The volume is altogether one of the most attractive we have ever seen, and on account of its many special features is certain to become a popular one."—Dublin Daily Express.

"Mr. Foster's method of separating the Peerages which have descended through heiresses or which have been revived in favour of co-heirs from the paternal descent of the present holders of them is a great and manifest improvement. Mr. Foster's is an ampler record of the Knights and their immediate families than is to be met with anywhere else; and he adds a full and useful catalogue of the Companions of all the various Knightly Orders of the Empire."—Pall Mall Gazette.

"A handsome volume of ambitious design. Mr. Foster has devoted the last five years to the production of a trustworthy book of reference. . . . The whole work has been prepared with great care and taste, and gives promise of taking its place in the foremost rank of such publications."—The Globe.

"The amount of work expended in the collection of the details contained in this book is something appalling to the ordinary mind. These facts require study before they can be estimated or criticised, but there is one feature of the book which will be apparent to the most casual turner-over of the leaves. We all know the trim arms usual in Peerages where all the coats are at first sight as much alike as two peas. But here all is different. The supporters look as if they were supporting something, and many of the shields would evidently fall into space without their assistance. All is life and action, so that these woodcuts, which are all drawn from authentic sources, give a liveliness to the volume which it would not otherwise possess."—Temple Bar.

"Mr. Foster, as the result of most arduous labours, has succeeded in compiling a work containing in all its several parts a vast amount of useful and much novel information, and has done this in a manner that deserves high praise."—Land and Water.

"Mr. Joseph Foster, than whom no man is better qualified for the task, has, in the sumptuous, the regal volume before us, produced, assuredly, the finest, the most masterly, the most carefully arranged and best thought-out Peerage and Baronetage of the age. Those who know (and what genealogist does not) his important volumes of county pedigrees, which have been favourably noticed in these pages, must have been struck with the admirable manner in which they were prepared, and have felt how thoroughly competent the compiler was for the task. The present work, gigantic in its proportions, is a fitting continuation of his labours, and will remain a lasting monument to his judgment and skill. Considerable pains appears to have been taken to weed out 'doubtfuls' among the Baronets, and these, with many spurious claims, are thrown by Mr. Foster into 'chaos,' from which, we opine, it will be almost a hopeless task even for the Herald's College itself to extricate them. His avowed object has been 'to produce a useful and trustworthy book of reference, such a book as will supply, in a condensed form, the genealogical as well as biographical history of the principal personages of the present day, including the near blood relations of every Peer and Baronet'; and to this end he has certainly, and with admirable results, 'worked up, to an infinitely greater extent than has hitherto been attempted, the very numerous, and for the most part uncollected, accounts of collateral descents' especially relating to the Baronets; and thus a vastly augmented value is given to his work over others. We are not, after a careful examination of Mr. Foster's volume, going to affirm that it is faultless, for it would be utterly impossible to produce a work of its kind that should in every case be free from error; but this we will say: that it seems to us to be far more accurate even in the smallest details than others, and bears evidence of scrupulous care in the verifying of dates, and in other particulars. The engravings, several hundred in number, are deserving of all praise. Drawn in the true spirit of the early heralds, and executed with strict fidelity to heraldic details, they form a feature of Mr. Foster's work that is eminently attractive, and give it a tone of originality and of pure artistic feeling that is quite refreshing."—The Reliquary.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

Mr. Foster has not only yet done with the distinctive character which has formed the material of his name among genealogists, but his latest work breathes no monotonous spirit. It is almost in the nature of a genealogical Robinson Crusoe, framed as to extend the franchise of royal descent to the majority of the English aristocracy. The number of houses included is very large, and the fact that so many of them are not yet mapped is an illustration of the lack of surveying, affording to the history of the country a quite possible proof that a majority of English gentlemen are descended from foreign kings. Reviewing the work, which is the first part of a magnificent and most profitable and beautiful work of compilation, The Peerage.

The latest product of Mr. Foster's industry in the genealogical matter is contained in the hundred and fifty pages of the present volume, which is a most valuable and handsome volume.
